If the first inning is complete, the umpire gets full pay for that game.

Make-up games are too finished where the game left off and the umpire gets full pay for the make-up game.

If the first game is cancelled and the umpire is there to ump that game and the remaining games are still to be played, then the umpire gets paid in full for the first game as well as any additional games that night. If the umpire is told the first game was cancelled and the umpire does not show up until the second games, then the umpire will only be paid for the games he/she umps.

If the second game of a triple header is cancelled for any reason and the umpire did the first and third game, then the umpire will be paid in full for all three games.

If the last game is cancelled for any reason and the umpire has already completed at least one game that night, then the umpire does not get paid for the late game that was cancelled.
